STATEMENT OF CPNI PROCEDURES
FOR WORKING ASSETS WIRELESS, INC.

Telemarketing

Working Assets Wireless, Inc. ("WAW") outbound telemarketing is performed solely by outside vendors. Customer privacy and compliance with CPNI regulations are achieved by providing only minimum customer information, none of which is CPNI, to telemarketing vendors.

Employee Access and Training

Employees are trained that customer information is confidential and private. Only those employees needing access to perform their duties are able to use the database containing this information. Each employee having access is trained not to divulge customer information to any third party except the customer and consultants/vendors (e.g., outside vendors perform billing services for WAW). All consultants/vendors sign non-disclosure agreements restricting the use of customer information to only the purpose of their engagement by WAW.

Provision of Information to Customers

Except for the provision of customer information in response to a subpoena, customer information is only provided to third parties as described above. To ensure that a customer request for CPNI is only provided to that customer, Customer Representatives are trained to mail the requested information only to the service or billing address of the account. Information may also be faxed to a customer's work location if the customer can correctly answer three security questions based upon the customer's account information.
